) Honorable Dana M. Sabraw

1 Plaintiff I-Flow Corporation ("I-Flow") hereby moves to consolidate Case No. 08cv0057
2 DMS (NLS) (the "Zone Case") against Defendant Zone Medical, LLC ("Zone") and Case No.
3 07cv1200 DMS (NLS) (the "Apex Case") against Defendants Apex Medical Technologies, Inc.
4 and Mark McGlothlin (referred to jointly as "APEX") Pursuant To Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a).

5 I. SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

6 The Zone Case and the Apex Case are related cases involving common questions of 7 law and fact making the cases suitable for consolidation under Rule 42(a). Both cases
8 involve I-Flow's U.S. Patent No. 5,284,481 (the '481 patent) and the SOLACE™ Post-
9 Operative Pain Relief Infusion System ("Accused Solace Pump"). In this case, Zone is 10 accused of selling and offering for sale the Accused Solace Pump that is made by APEX.
11 Thus, the same '481 patent and the same accused product are at issue in both cases. The legal 12 and factual issues will overlap. The claim construction issues will overlap. Moreover, the 13 evidence presented at trial, both documentary and testimonial, will inevitably overlap.

14 No undue delay or prejudice will result from consolidating the causes of action. Zone
15 will be able to raise its defenses and will have sufficient time to conduct discovery.
16 Consolidation in no way prevents Zone from receiving a full and fair trial on the merits.

17 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

18 I-Flow filed a patent infringement action against APEX for infringing the '481 patent 19 by making, using, selling, and offering for sale the Accused Solace Pump. See Declaration of 20 Boris Zelkind, Ex. 1. The Apex Case is currently progressing through claim construction
21 discovery pursuant to the Patent Local Rules. Zelkind Decl., ¶ 3. Upon discovering that 22 Zone was marketing the Accused Solace Pump, I-Flow promptly filed this patent 23 infringement action, and filed a notice of related cases identifying the Apex Case as currently 24 pending in this judicial district. In the complaint for patent infringement, I-Flow alleges that 25 Zone markets the Accused Solace Pump that is made by APEX in violation of the '481
26 patent. Thus, the same patent, the '481 patent, is at issue in both of the related Zone and 27 Apex Cases. Likewise, the same accused product, the Accused Solace Pump, is at issue in 28 both cases. Zelkind Decl., ¶¶ 4-5.

1 The parties met and conferred regarding consolidating the related Zone and Apex
 2 Cases. I-Flow sought Zone's consent to file a joint motion to consolidate. Zone has refused
 3 to stipulate to consolidation of the related cases.¹ Zelkind Decl., ¶6.

4 III. ARGUMENT

5 A. The Related Zone And Apex Cases Should Be Consolidated Because They 6 Involve Common Issues Of Law And Fact

7 Consolidation under Rule 42(a) is within the broad discretion of the court. Investors
 8 Research, Co. v. United States Dist. Court, 877 F.2d 777, 777 (9th Cir. 1989). A court may 9 consolidate actions pending before it pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42(a) when 10 they involve a "common question of law or fact:"

11 If actions before the court involve a common question of law or fact, the court
 12 may: (1) join for hearing or trial any or all matters at issue in the actions; (2)
 13 consolidate the actions; or (3) issue any other orders to avoid unnecessary cost
 14 or delay.

15 Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a). After determining that there are common questions of law and fact, the 16 court must then "weigh[] the saving of time and effort consolidation would produce against 17 any inconvenience, delay or expense that it would cause." Huene v. United States, 743 F.2d 18 703, 704 (9th Cir. 1984).

19 The related Zone and Apex Cases involve common issues of law and fact. They 20 involve the same '481 patent, the same accused product and the same plaintiff. Two pending
 21 suits involving common questions of law and fact and involving the same plaintiff are apt
 22 candidates for consolidation. Hanes Cos. v. Ronson, 712 F.Supp. 1223, 1230 (M.D.N.C.
 23 1988) (consolidating two cases filed by the same plaintiff finding consolidation "enhanced 24 efficiency and economy for all concerned"). Consolidation is "particularly appropriate"
 25 where, as here, one plaintiff is suing multiple defendants for patent infringement. Ovadia v.

26 ¹ I-Flow was surprised by Zone's unwillingness to consent to a joint motion to 27 consolidate. When the issue was raised during an informal telephonic conference with the 28 Court on February 14, 2008, Zone argued that it was I-Flow's "strategy" to avoid consolidation and overly complicate the issues by pursuing multiple separate patent infringement lawsuits. This allegation was unfounded, and on the contrary, when I-Flow attempted to obtain Zone's consent to jointly seek consolidation, Zone refused.

1 Top Ten Jewelry Corp., 2005 WL 1337792, *1 (S.D.N.Y. June 6, 2005) (“Consolidation is
2 particularly appropriate where, as in this case, the complaints contain nearly identical
3 allegations, involve many of the same parties, and would not prejudice the plaintiff(s)”).
4 Likewise, here, I-Flow is suing multiple defendants for patent infringement of the same
5 patent.

6 Because both causes of action allege patent infringement of the same ‘481 patent by 7 the same product, the cases involve common questions of law and fact. Common issues such 8 as infringement, validity, and enforceability of the patent make patent cases particularly good
9 candidates for consolidation. See Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Revlon, Inc., 111 F.R.D. 24, 32
10 (D. Del. 1986) (consolidating two cases involving distinct but “closely related” patents).
11 Here, I-Flow alleges that Zone and APEX are infringing the ‘481 patent.

12 Moreover, both related cases involve the Accused Solace Pump. Zone is accused of 13 infringing the ‘481 patent by selling the Accused Solace Pump, which is made by APEX.
14 APEX is accused of infringing the ‘481 patent with the Accused Solace Pump in the related 15 case. The issues addressing claim construction and infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271 have 16 significant overlap. Therefore, the two related patent infringement cases involve common 17 questions of law and fact that support a motion to consolidate.

18 B. Interests Of Judicial Economy Favor Consolidation

19 Consolidation of the related Zone and Apex Cases serves judicial economy while not 20 creating the potential for delay, confusion, and prejudice. As discussed above, a court weighs 21 the interest in judicial economy against the potential for delay, confusion and prejudice
22 caused by consolidation. Monolithic Power Systems, Inc. v. O2 Micro Intern. Ltd., 2006 WL
23 2329466, *1 (N.D. Cal. 2006). Consolidation of the related Zone and Apex Cases will result 24 in the conservation of judicial resources because both patent infringement cases involve the 25 same patent, the same product, the same plaintiff and overlapping arguments of infringement,
26 validity and enforceability. The similarity of the cases will result in significant overlap in the

27 ///

28 ///

1 evidence, both documentary and testimonial. Therefore, the conservation of judicial
2 resources that will result from conducting the Zone and Apex Cases together weighs heavily
3 in favor of consolidation.

4 Zone will not be prejudiced and no undue delay will result from consolidation of the 5 cases. Zone will have an opportunity to raise its defenses. Zone will have sufficient time to 6 conduct discovery and prepare for a claim construction hearing. More importantly, Zone will 7 receive a fair and impartial trial after consolidation. See Malcolm v. National Gypsum Co.,
8 995 F.2d 346, 350 (2nd Cir.1993) (in consolidation, court emphasized fairness over 9 efficiency). Zone is entitled to and will receive a full and fair trial on the merits. Zone will 10 have every opportunity to present its defenses to patent infringement in front of an impartial
11 trier of fact. In addition, consolidation will avoid the risk of inconsistent or conflicting 12 results. The fact that Zone will receive a fair and impartial trial and will not be prejudiced by 13 consolidation supports I-Flow's Rule 42(a) motion.

14 IV. CONCLUSION

15 Judicial economy favors consolidating the related Zone and Apex Cases pending
16 before this court. They involve the same patent, the same accused product and the same
17 plaintiff. Therefore, I-Flow respectfully requests that the motion to consolidate be granted.

18 Respectfully submitted,
